Skills Tip

When you do a math problem, always check your answer.

How to Check Your Answers

Good students always check their answers. How do you check them? Just use the opposite kind of math.

For example, you want to add $12 + 27$, and you think the answer is 39. How can you be sure? Use subtraction! $39 - 27 = 12$. Also, $39 - 12 = 27$. Your answer is correct!

Now, you want to do a subtraction problem. You think that $48 - 13 = 35$. How can you be sure? Use addition! $35 + 13 = 48$. Your answer is correct!

This works with multiplication and division, too. You think that $3 \times 5 = 15$. How can you check? You know that $15 \div 5 = 3$, so your answer is correct.

Let's try division. You think that $24 \div 2 = 12$. How do you know it's correct? Just multiply 12×2 . Is your answer 24? Good job!

1. What kind of math do you use to check an addition problem?

2. What kind of math do you use to check a multiplication problem?

3. What kind of math do you use to check a division problem?

C Circle.

A Read and write.My Trip to Hawaii By Zack

My family and I went to Hawaii last week. I am now 12 years old, so I had more privileges. I could stay up late in the hotel and watch scary movies. I could even take surfing lessons, but I couldn't go to the beach or walk up the busy streets alone.

I also had more responsibilities on this trip. I helped Mom make sandwiches for lunch so we could have picnics on the beach. I had to babysit my little sister twice when my parents caught a taxi to a restaurant. I also had to read some textbooks and do some homework for school before we flew home.

1. What could Zack do in the hotel?

2. What did Zack have to do for school?

3. How did Zack's parents get to a restaurant?

B Circle the helping verbs and underline the main verbs.

- Zack's parents could catch a taxi, but they couldn't ride the bus.
- Zack couldn't do his homework yesterday, but he can do it today.
- Zack's little sister can watch TV, but she can't watch scary movies.

C Write. Then circle the helping verbs and underline the main verbs.

What can you do on weekends that you can't do on weekdays?
